Money is an inseparable component of life & living for the rich and poor alike. Even the blinds and handicapped person cannot live without Money or banknote. Keeping this in the backdrop currency notes need to possess and many banknotes do possess some features apart from security feature for the benefit of the blinds and visually impaired persons. Usually variations in size & color contrasts between denominations, big & bold writing of numerals, raised/intaglio printing of different shapes for different denominations etc. are used. Knowledge and information of these features are seldom disseminated to those who need the most.

The endeavor to organize a seminar exclusively for the blinds to help and educate them to recognize currency note is unique in nature and deserves encouragement, promotion and sponsoring. I strongly feel that this seminar will be beneficial for the society as a whole by creating a sense of awareness to help the handicapped people in general and for the blinds in particular by raising their level of self-confidence in exchanging banknotes.

I wish this seminar a grand success.
