Blind people are oppressed in every society of the world and Bangladesh is no exception. We also see there is not much effort for the education of blind in most districts of our country. The education system for the blind is expensive and a large number of blind people do not have access to such educational facilities. They are perceived by most of the citizens of our country as a burden to our society which need not be the case rather with appropriate CSR programs by corporates and government agencies, their talents can be harnessed to make them contributing members and productive manpower.

In this context, it is encouraging to see that IICT has initiated 'Awareness Program on Bangladeshi Bank note for the Blind' at the proper time. This is a small laudable step taken by IICT towards educating the blind on a specific subject which will protect them from becoming victims of frauds and forgeries in currency notes. I hope more initiatives in other areas will follow from other government and non-government agencies .
